

WHICH SEAT WOULD YOU RECOMMEND FOR OFFSHORE CRANE OPERATORS?

Question

A question that we often hear answered by Victor Willems, Managing Director of RECARO Maritime and from our own experiences in this sector.

For many decades, RECARO have been the first choice for Offshore Crane builders.

Function, reliability, correct ergonomics and comfort are the key words that we hear most often. The seats absolutely cannot break down or cause short-term discomfort or long-term injuries to the crane operators. This is why many companies turn to a seat builder known for Quality. VW

We would echo every word Victor has said.

As for recommendations, almost all the enquiries we deal with, the Offshore Operators are using the Atlantic or similar shaped seats with electric adjustments like the Arctic. The real challenge is always to get the operator in the correct position relative to the controls. With a range of options and accessories from RECARO, this is always possible. AU

RECARO Atlantic

RECARO Arctic

....feel the difference.
